Code: FLMD-212:22
FLMD16-212.06
FLMD-312:3
FLMD16-312.05

Course title: Fate and History: István Szabó's Cinema (in English / angol nyelvű kurzus)

Course convenors: Tibor Hirsch

Class time and place: Monday 12 30 -14 00, -135

Course type: Seminar

Course content: István Szabó in his whole career was focusing on the unprepared individual being forced to meet with the always hostile East-European history.

In the films made from the early 60's Szabó depicts different sorts of surviving strategies of the average civilian when this XX. Century's history - unpredictable fate embodied by the series of well-known severe political events – “is arriving”. These strategies here in this geographical region are always desperate, always deniable - and sometimes they are adopted just too late.

In Szabo's films we can understand and reconstruct the typical world view of people living in the region (especially in the urban Hungary) who tried to defend themselves against the threats above. This very civilian attitude had different psychologically motivated components: all of them used for survival. As we can see from the films, these survival techniques could be different depending on the period (listed above) when they were adopted, and on the people who actually used them. They are different and still - in the examinable films - there are one common world-view and attitude as a basic frame, which helps Szabó to describe ordinary city folk, young Hungarian intellectuals and German artists as well.

To prove all these we will analyse Szabo’s unique urban visual poetry and his very special psychological realism.

Requirements: First classes are rather lectures – and the basic points of the “East-European survival attitude” are explained and shown in the films. Classes later are rather seminars – and students are expected to analyse films in independent presentations, using the common social-historical approach.

Completing the course successfully students will obtain some basic knowledge of István Szabó’s films, and also the social-historical view of the time and the region these films are reflecting on.

Learning outcomes:

Films to watch (provided by the Film Department with English subtitles):

Age of Illusions (1963)
Father (1964)
Lovefilm (1970)
25 Fireman Street (1973)
Budapest Tales (1977)
Mephisto (1981)
Colonel Redl (1985)
Hanussen (1988)
Sweet Emma, Dear Böbe (1991)
Sunshine (1999)
Taking Sides (2001)
(Titles in bold letters will be the most frequently referred ones in the classes)

Indicative Reading: Some books on Hungarian Cinema in connection with the topic of the seminar
Bryan Burns
Fairleigh Dickinson Univ Press 1996 World Cinema: Hungary
Hungarian cinema: from coffee house to multiplex
John Cunningham
Wallflower, 2004
Word and image: history of the Hungarian cinema
István Nemeskürty
Corvina Press, 1968
History must answer to man: the contemporary Hungarian cinema
Graham Petrie
Corvina Kiadó, 1981

Plot summaries in English:

Books on Istvan Szabó in English

Some reviews on Szabo’s films, selected studies, articles, interviews in English and French)
Scott, Jay: Szabo’s films „a record” of his life. The Globe and Mail (29 October 1988)
Sublett, Scott: Hungarian makes films to support people. The Washington Times (10 September 1982)
Christensen, P. G.: Collaboration in István Szabó’s Mephisto. Film Criticism (Spring 1988) no. 3. pp. 20–32.
Martin, Marcel: Mephisto. Image et Son (Jan 1982) no. 368. pp. 29–33. (French)

Suggestions for online-reading about Istvan Szabo:
Art, Politics, and ’Taking Sides’: An Interview with Istvan Szabo by Marty Fairbairn -Film Philosophy.
http://zakka.dk/euroscreenwriters/interviews/istvan_szabo.htm
theartsdesk Q&A: Director István Szabó | Film reviews
Books on Hungarian History and Social-History in connection with the topic of the seminar: